For his efficient LEADERSHIP and loyal FRIENDSHIP
For his 22 years of UNSELFISH SERVICE at La Sierra College
For his HUMBLE, QUIET EXAMPLE of true Christianity

We dedicate this 1952 Meteor to LESTER H. CUSHMAN dressing in casuals — changing the baby — pouring concrete — instructing a junior Sabbath school class — teaching with pleasant animation — adjusting loud speakers — hamming as BJD — designing electronic gadgets — collecting birds, rodents, insects, and crystals — brain storming a math solution — this is the Mr.

Cushman we know

LA SIERRA
COLLEGE

EST. 1922

GODFREY T. ANDERSON, Ph.D.
President

We select chapel speakers, prepare devotionals for faculty meetings, report to the board on policies and trends, pack for a flying trip to a meeting on educational problems, request the board for money for a new building, recommend the promotion of a faculty member, persuade the discouraged student that a winner never quits, plan a budget, figure out how to stay within it, and explain to a worried constituent that the young people of today are basically sound in spite of occasional aberrations.

APPLIED ARTS

Agriculturists

We epitomize the slogans "return to nature," "back to the soil," and "give me my boots and tractor," as we dig into the value of dirt, study "plows and plowing," learn the significance in non-technical terms of cows and cirrus clouds, and in polysyllabic terms of the Mendelian ratio, nonsymbiotic bacteria, and the flocculation of clays.

Woodworkers

We turn out lamps, frame gables, lay out rafters, locate the bird's mouth, nail siding, sketch grooved joints, draft isometric plans, rout dovetails, and polish it off with "rez."

Bibliophiles

Hope H. Hayton, B.S. in L.S., M.A.

We learn the significance of the Dewey Decimal System down to the fifth place, pore over Cutter's tables, discover in the card catalog an amazing network of cross-references, make author, title, and subject cards for a variety of books, learn 26 letters as we never learned them before, investigate the contents of the "R" branded books that never leave the library, and add to our vocabulary such teasingly romantic terms as date slips, call numbers, jackes, pockets, and bindings, and such cryptic chips of words as slicks, snags, mags, and MSS.

Edward Nachreiner, M.A.

Margarete Ambs, M.A.

Linguists

We maneuver our mouths, make faces and twist tongues over umlauts, acute accents, and tildes, knit our brows over the occasional limping, lumbering results of word-for-word translations, unexpectedly get tripped up by that gremlin the idiom, acquaint ourselves with the customs and culture of the Old World, know the sudden thrill of thinking in another language, experiment with a "Bonjour!" on our roommate (who took Spanish), and sprout a lasting sympathy for the poor people learning English.

Edelweiss Verein finds talent among its own members—Richard Jensen, Sue Evens, Lois Drake, and John Evens entertain with the soulful "Du-du liegst mir in Herzen," accompanied by pianist Oran Reiswig.

At the Christmas party of Le Cercle Francais, Pere Noel (Byron Fujikawa) gives to Miss Amba a ceramic shoe containing gifts which each member received as a party favor. Assisting the French Santa are Bill Seibly, Manuel Elias, Harold Fanselau, and Ronald Young.

Speakers

We stammer through impromptu speeches, sweat out class criticisms, confound our roommates with a me-may-my-mo-moo, utter pithy pronouncements about Peter Piper, ragged rascals, and brown cows, express frequent longings for "the lonely sea and the sky"—and bow to Demosthenes.

Harold B. Hannum, M.Mus., A.A.G.O.

Alfred Walters, M.Mus.

We brave the Elements, get snowed under in Theory, have a mad encounter with Modal Counterpoint, learn that form, ensemble, and mode have nothing to do with fashion; nor tonic, rest, and organ recitals with the doctor; speak glibly of A-440, the Three B'S, and C-clefs, practice feverishly for recitals, trace music history from Jubal to Stravinsky, tour with the band, orchestra, and choir, and grow to love our "universal language."

William J. Napier, B.A.

Athletes

We throw out chests, suffer from knee bends, shoot for the basket, make right end runs, take a turn at tennis, track, and tumbling, have a few initial worries about internal security, learn to connect a racquet, a club, and a bat with the ball, shiver in mid-morning swimming classes, and hope in spite of all our health-promoting we don't become a patient.

Maudie Bryan, R.N., B.S.

Outstanding is our Intra-mural Board which has charge of tennis, flagball, basketball, and baseball. The "Falcons" with their captain, Tom Clark, won out in the intra-mural flagball league. Highlighted also is the tumbling team in its annual "Gymkana."

Nurses

Anna P. Edwardson, M.A.

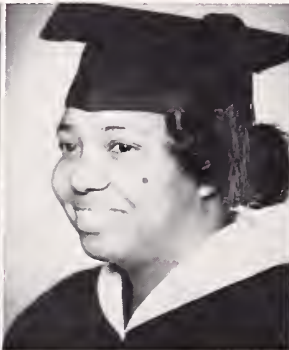

We, inspired by the heroism of Florence Nightingale, encounter Chemistry with all five senses, struggle through Anatomy and Physiology, suffer through cat-lab, and when the going gets rough, fancy ourselves in white hustling down long grey halls, ministering to patients, responding efficiently to quiet words: ". . . scalpel . . . sponge . . . sutures . . .," and working on the same ward with a tall young intern. . .

The golden voices of the choir blended with the orchestral strings, and driven by the power of the organ, swelled into a great crescendo to climax Handel's Messiah with the Hallelujah chorus. We drop barbells on the floor, tease the dean, harmonize a la barber-shop in the shower, wait desperately for late corsages, exasperate the dean, fuel smudge pots, "shoot the bull," alarm the dean, cram history in the parlor after lights-out, and munch Mrs. Matheson's popcorn and cookies Saturday nights.

Gene Prout, personifying both Santa and MBK, presents Dean Matheson and his wife with a tangible bit of appreciation.

We could write books about roommates, rising bells, monitors, the furniture rearrangers above us, and How to Manage in a Blackout, but "don't know a thing" about midnight feeds, fire-crackers, and extension cords in light sockets; we take turns cleaning the room, outdo ourselves for Open House, serve Sabbath breakfast in the Marionette, learn to approach the Rose Room with caution, always look for mail, get excited over packages from home (anybody's) — and occasionally study.

Helen Evans, B.A.

Librarians

We, though completely book-minded are so busy classifying and cataloguing volumes, listing reserves, gluing broken backs, filing accession numbers, spotting books for teachers, hushing students, and fining procrastinators that we despair of finding time for that book with the clever jacket.

D. Glenn Hilts, B.S. in L.S., M.A.

Cooks

Anna Van Ausdle, M.A.

We work with Mrs. Van to refuel the hungry mob, guard the garlic-and-cheese French bread from hoarders, clear tables to make way for the next starving contingent, supply fresh foods for daily consumption and "canned" music for Wednesday night supper dates, and stifle soft-hearted inclinations when a latecomer hungrily begs for admittance.

Jennette Proctor and Gertie Weis attempt to fill several hundred aching voids.

Shadows lengthen across campus lawns, leaving pepper trees and evergreens in exotic silhouette against the backdrop of distant mountains, pink-capped in the evening sky. . . . Vesper chimes, invading the quiet, welcome a new Sabbath. . . . These are the distillations of memory that will long remain to conjure up for us the meaning of Alma Mater.

MAINTENANCE

Mechanics

We stop leaks, open drains, put out fires, answer scores of questions about "what happened to the water pressure" or "what made the lights go out," and see that the school plant doesn't "go to pieces."

Charles L. Martin

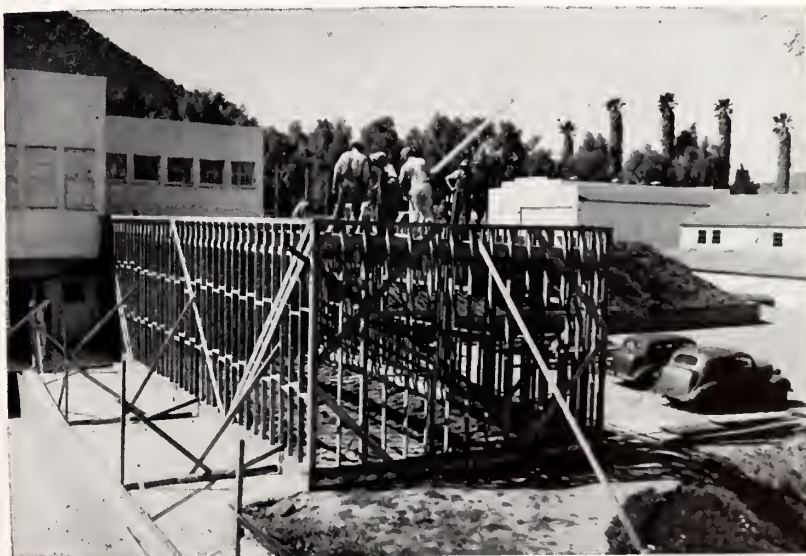

Carpenters

Thanks to Tasker's crew, showers will no longer be restricted either to April or to the masculine segment of La Sierra's swimming enthusiasts.

William M. Tasker

We have knotty problems as we build cupboards for Home Ec lab, saw out props for ASB programs, come to the aid of collapsing beds, construct a sewage plant, erect South Chapel for added exercise, and, as a rule of thumb, always hit the nail on the head; of us is may truly be said, we came, we sawed, we conquered.

Joe Marshall makes last minute changes before the "Critter" rolls off the press.

Pressmen

Don Anderson

We stuff the miehle, run the heidelberg, cast the pigs (we have no pearls), staple and stitch, kill the forms, feed the snappers, take a shooting proof, carry out the hell box—and as a climax to a busy year print the METEOR.

Farmers

George E. Stearns

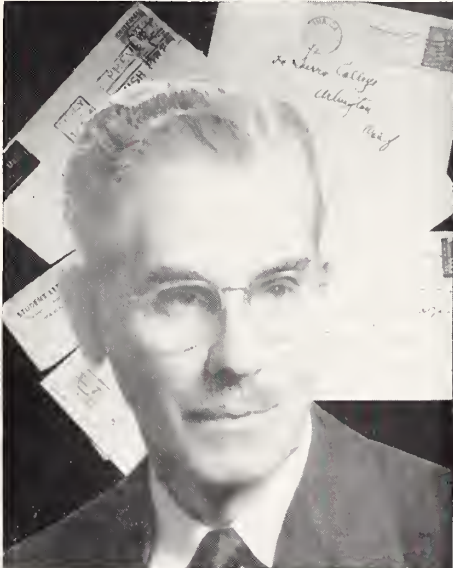

We "juice the critters" for your daily milk, harrow clods, mow alfalfa, make hay while the sun shines, husk corn, save what we can for the birds, keep the weeds down on the airstrip, and learn firsthand that "whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap."

F. E. Romant

Postmen

R. W. Bickett

We purvey news, advice, love, and money to eager "customers," and for three cents accept same in return — in tightly sealed, carefully addressed wrappers; we are interpreters of the country's calligraphy, transmitters of joy and grief, intermediaries between forlorn freshman and home, "broke" senior and dad's wallet, worried vet and Uncle Sam's exchequer, Cupid and Somebody's Valentine — and we're indispensable.

Merchants

We price goods, keep track of supply and demand and the OPS ceilings, ring up a big bill for Friday's shopping, try to compensate with green stamps, remember cupid and mother and babies with the latest greeting cards, and cater to coeds by making the best burgers and "straw-pluggingest" malts in Riverside County.

Ice cream bar? Hot tacos? Lucina Stanley sacks up a snack for Bob White while "Prof" Walters and Henry Barron wait their turn.

Nurserymen

We buff, sand, and candle eggs, soak ourselves setting sprinklers, power-mow the lawns, police up papers, prune the peppers, spray the shrubs, trim the bushes, strip the palms, and when there's nothing else to do, hoe weeds.

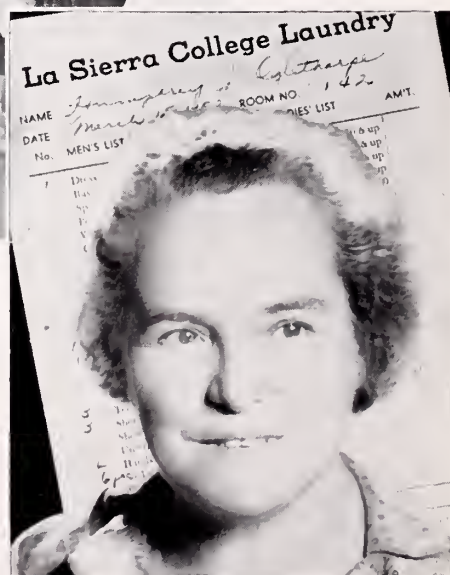

John Dean

Nancy Namba, Hannelore Fuss, Olive Pratt, and Charlotte Stokes hope they will always have a white collar job.

Launderers

We blue blouses, starch shirts, pleat skirts, mangle sheets, press pants, rinse rags, pause for breath, mop our brows, sneak a glance at the mountainous heap of laundry bags, feel vaguely sorry for Santa Claus, wonder which Miller belongs to this towel, wait frantically for our extractor to be repaired, envy Santa's job, and then remind ourselves that cleanliness is next to godliness.

Pearl Guild

Custodians

We chase dust, polish the floors in HMA, empty waste baskets, erase the blackboards, clean the erasers, run competition to the organ with a full-throated vacuum cleaner, ask for time off, punch the clock . . . chase dust, polish the floors, empty waste baskets . . . and ponder a futile philosophy.

Lifesavers

Yvonne Foster, R.N.

We choke down vitamin pills, flinch at penicillin shots, endure the infirmary bed, gulp quarts of "Apricade", gag on scratchy throat swabs, chatter through the window during chicken-pox quarantine, and tolerate rules that will keep us in tone until another summer of sunbaths.

A S B FUNCTIONS

Chief of ASB operations this year, personable HERNDON HARDING proved a notable successor to the title of president. Politic on the platform, tireless in committee, stimulating among friends, he soon earned the warm respect of all who knew him. Victim of bulbar polio in mid-February, Herndon left a stunned ASB to his vice president. Within a month, however, in response to many prayers, he was able to compose a courageous, memorable letter to the student body, and by April 4 to appear unexpectedly in chapel, inspiring an ovation that testified unforgettably to the love and respect of his La Sierra friends.

Executives

We

who represent the Head of an illustrious Body, sweat over the Critter Campaign, plan snow picnics, banquets, field days, benefits, and the super terrific fantastic Spring Talent Festival, worry over income and outgo, budgets and balance sheets, consume hours in committees, wrangle over exchange trips, tangle over points of order in chapel, frequently consult our faithful parliamentarian who consults his fingertips for Roberts' Rules of Order, and learn that you can't please all of the people all of the time.

Fritz Guy, Bill Olson, Glenn Foster, and Joseph Ellis plan the next Mountain Meditations, Sabbath radio program sponsored by the ASB.

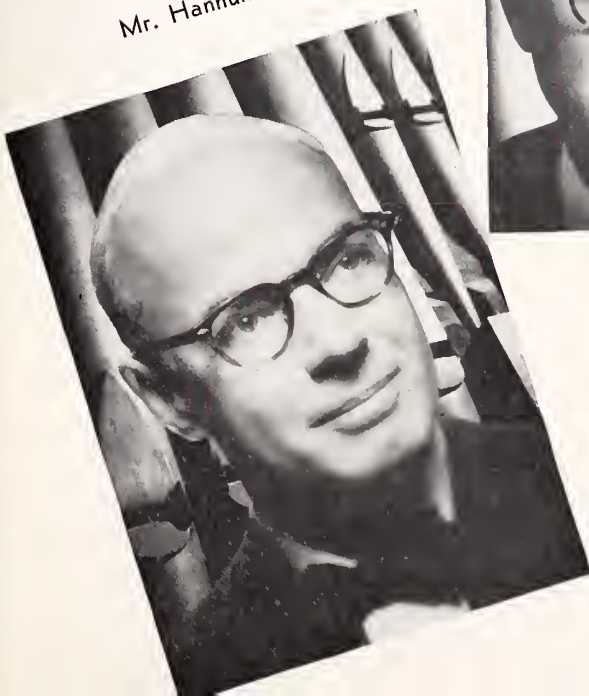

Mr. Specht

Mr. Walters

Mr. Hannum

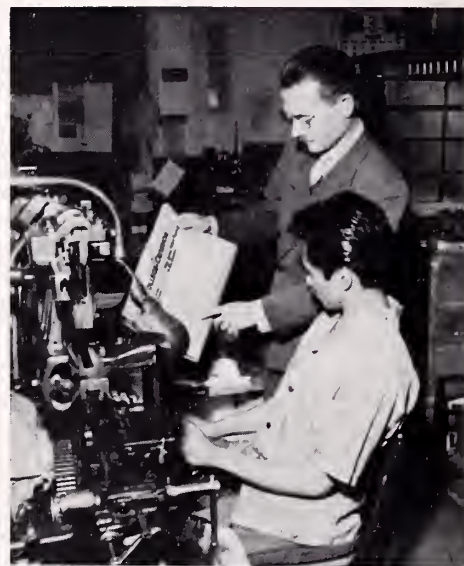

Heralds

A jovially untypical scene in the Criterion office, with Stanton Parker, Lavaun Ward, Mafi Weiss, Elaine Rentfro, Alvin Chow, Howard Lee, and David Katsuyama looking as if they never heard of a deadline.

Earl Heslop, Criterion editor, counsels with linotype operator Eddie Napoles at the College Press.

We, reporters and sob sisters, sharpen our pencils for scoops and our noses for news, work our beat, dope out the four w's, count words and count on a by-line, knock off heads for the "Criter", work like a printer's devil for our "chief"—and hope that we can recognize the printed story.

Willis Wilcox, Cordelia Menchey, Bob Ellis, Bernard Mracek, and Carl Yamahua provide jobs for the nation's postmen.

THE day for winners Arline Gorton, Stanton Parker, Lavaun Ward, Marilyn Pfeiffer, Julia Waipa, Catherine Moss, Charles Lindsay, Illene Miller, Joe Ellis, Dr. Edward Heppenstall, Bruce Campbell, and Howard Lee.

The main problem confronting spacemen Morris Venden, Ronald Zane, and Gerald Reynolds is to get down to earth with 5800 subs.

Chroniclers

We eke out copy inch by inch, "red-pencil" the proofs, struggle valiantly to picture every student in the annual, worry over ads, heads, bleeds, and deadlines, burn the midnight oil, fret over the budget, beat a path to the press, correct copy, check the galleys, discover (gulp!) on the president's page that—typographically—"a sinner never quits," watch the clock fold hands on one as we dream of bed,—and wonder why on earth we ever accepted this job.

Dale Curtis, ad salesman, seeks help on layout from Mr. Koorennny. Dorothy Lansing, photo editor, is the go-between for the pictures.

The METEOR staff in the more sanguine, less haunted days of first semester, when the present was fun, and the future assured — days when the high tension of spring deadlines was not even a horrible dream. Witness the calm composure of Marvin Clark, Oran Reiswig, Mrs. Chloe Sofsky, Charles Lindsay, and Beth Hanna.

In another corner work Georgia Erikson, assistant ad-seller, Allison Miranda, and Don Pearce.

As deadlines approached, strange things happened. Marvin began muttering numbers incoherently; Beth lost track of the M's in the dictionary; Mrs. Sofsky, typewriter-happy at 2:00 a.m., began hearing bells, feared for her sanity, discovered Beth typing short lines in the next room; Dale dreamed that Gabriel's ad featured President Anderson in coveralls; Oran — well, Oran was too far gone to discover that he had

College Day

We transformed a lusterless gym into a bustling bazaar of educational fare and collegiate wares to tempt visiting academy seniors.

Sweatered seniors see art in the making.

How camellias have changed in the past hundred years!

From summer to winter in one easy jaunt — at this end of the gym.

From the plate to home in one breezy jaunt — a fellow can dream, can't he?

As janitor par excellence at the memorable FACULTY - SENIOR BANQUET, President Anderson scored a knockout in his roomy coveralls, painter's cap, and sky-pink socks.

Subhappy sophomore Humphrey J. Oglethorpe (Mr. Napier) grasps a golden opportunity to score a point with admired — but sublessly unhappy — Betty Greene (Mrs. Oblander).

Senior Humphrey, full of savoir-faire, spring fancies, and sagacity, has his acceptance from Loma Linda — and Betty. Soft music please. Humphrey's in seventh heaven.

Following last year's precedent La Sierra students captured more prizes in Riverside County Date Festival.

Oakwood Male Chorus brings a touch of Dixie to the campus with their songs and spirituals.

Mr. Hamilton greets Francis R. Line, lyceum film-lecturer, who by taking thought added a cubit to his popularity if not his stature.

President Anderson and Ronald Berg share a pleasantry with British Consul Robert Henry Hadow, who liked La Sierra, but rather favored England.

Awards to the winners!

Barber, spare those remaining hairs!

Ken Lorenz and Richard Pfeiffer trumpet close harmony.

Pat Wikoff, Olive Pratt, and Doris Dewey blend to make soft melody.

The Mitchell Boy Choir proved what training can do for a talented group.

Artist Series

To those who really know fine music, the Griller String Quartet was one of the highlights of the year.

Both the Carolers and duo-pianists Morley and Gearhart provided unusual musical fare for La Sierra concert-goers, who responded enthusiastically to personal charm and technical finesse.

Installation of SPK's new president is ceremoniously observed by club members, as Barbara Canright hands over her gavel to Florence Hill. Matter of gravest — or gayest — concern at the beginning of the new semester is the annual Valentine party, which is another way of saying that spri'g is arou'd the corder.

MBK

MBK president Eugene Prout lends a steadying hand to SPK president Barbara Canright as the women of the campus prepare to take a peek behind the Paper Curtain of this masculine stronghold.

Bill Garcia, Art Park, Bill Leiske, Don Doty, Roger Belden, Jack Stafford, and Bob White entertain with relaxing rhythm at open house.

Stanley Ray, Arline Gorton, Dorothy Lansing, and Oran Reiswig nibble while they chat in Calkins parlor.

Ronald Zane, Mitzi Smith, Ione Weber, Bill Abbott, Sven Markoff, and K. F. Ambs anticipate refreshments as Bob Schneider, Bob Wood, and Stanley Mulder serve for the MBK club.

Theme of the banquet—SPORTS.

Father-Son Banquet

Dean Lease sounds a welcome. Listening at the speakers' table are Richard Sessums, Bob Buchanan, Fred Golles, Willard Leiske, Mr. Roland Walters, Ronald Young, and Duane Rubin.

Bob Thomas inspires visions of the "Open Road."

Mr. Walter Crandall, formerly dean of men, inspired fathers and sons alike with a provocative speech both witty and wise at the biennial banquet.

Campus Day

We — believe it or not — were Burros and Toros; we raced, tugged, jumped, batted, and chatted, and when finally exhausted ate tacos for supper, then spent a hilarious evening applauding a bull-versus-toreador duo on skates.

As an educational center dedicated to serve the church, nation and world by training young men and women, CME can help you follow the footsteps of the Great Physician in any one of the several professions in the healing arts.

Who's He

Well, he's probably the most important person on the P.U.C. campus.

He's the man who orders the new books for the College library — who insists that P.U.C. teachers have the highest professional qualifications (4 new Ph.D.'s this spring).

The College president holds special office hours for his benefit. The academic standards committee furrows its scholarly brows over his problems.

For him there is foreign travel with college credit — field work in science — everything to broaden his knowledge of life.

He's the man who conducts the annual Week of Devotion — the man who plans student evangelism.

For him the cooks cook, the engineers engineer, the gardeners garden, and the accountants account.

He's a future conference president — he'll be an executive in a few years.

He's the center of the entire College program, its focus of attention, its reason for existence. He's the most important man on campus — the P.U.C. Student.
